TOBACCO INDUSTRY

(From the compilations of Frank S. Baines.)

More tobacco is packed by 30 dealers in Janesville than in any other city of the United States, excepting Lancaster, Pa. There are 110 licensed dealers in Wisconsin (outside of Milwaukee) and one-fourth of them reside in this city.

In L. B. Carle & Son Janesville has the largest local packers in the state. William Pomeroy, now 82, who raised the first crop of tobacco in Wisconsin—6 acres in the town of Fulton, Rock county, which he sold to the Adams Tobacco Co. of Milwaukee for 10 cents a pound in 1854—is enjoying a happy old age at his home on Pleasant street in this city.

The 1906 crop in Wisconsin was approximately 39,000 acres, producing 49,725,000 lbs., which at the average price of 13 1/2 cents netted the producers $6,712,875. Add two cents a pound for sorting and casing and it will be found that the packers have approximately $8,000,000 invested in this crop.

Janesville dealers have $2,000,000 invested in the 1906 crop. They will employ 950 men and women for several months and the stemming business which was started here in a small way in 1886 has now grown to such size that it gives employment to from 300 to 400 hands during the summer months immediately after the warehouses are closed.

The local investment in the 1906 crop will be as follows:

In the leaf, itself	$2,000,000
Labor	140,000
Cases	47,000
Other Expenses	10,000
Warehouse prop'ty	197,000

About 130 members of the Twilight Club and visitors, including Prof. D. Earl Burchell of the department of commerce, University of Wisconsin; Circuit Judge George Grimm of Jefferson, Ky.; partook of a delicious repast and lingered in the haze of cigar smoke to listen to a discussion of Janesville's industries, at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last evening. T. S. Nolan led a flank movement to have the subject for the February meeting changed and when his side was declared the loser, despite the official count, succeeded in having the head of the opposing forces elected as leader. The various industries discussed were presented under such veiled titles as

DOCTORS ADMIT

That They Can Do Nothing More For Your Stomach Than Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Doing Every Day.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

According to the expert analysis of government authorities in the United States and Great Britain, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain the exact elements provided by nature for digesting food in the healthy stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have saved sufferers from stomach disorders millions of dollars by giving them, in one small 50 cent package, more relief than countless treatments by physicians would bring about at $3.00 per visit.

Perhaps you are afflicted with dyspepsia—or some kindred disease arising from a disordered digestion. It may be headache, heartburn, palpitation, liver trouble, insomnia, nervous debility. They all have their beginning in a stomach which does not secrete the juices or grind the food which is taken into it.

It so, we urge you to send for a free trial package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. It will cost you nothing and surely will bring you no gain unless you find, after using it, that you are benefited and feel that you need a full-sized package.

There is absolutely no danger in using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Nothing is contained in them that has not been subjected to the closest scrutiny by government officials.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food without demanding a careful diet. One grain of these Tablets has power to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. You can be sure therefore that no matter what your condition, these little tablets taken after each meal will shortly restore your stomach to its normal condition and render it capable of doing its work unassisted.

We withhold the names of hundreds who have written us voluntarily expressing their gratitude to this simple substitute for nature.

Send for trial package today. F. A. Stuart Co., 70 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

"The Fountain of Youth," "My Lady Nicotine" and with the exception of the illuminating "Birdseye View of Our Industries" by George G. Sutherland and Prof. Burchell's "Practical Problems of Business Management."

Ninety-eight Manufacturers.

Leader J. A. Craig in introducing the first speaker said that the subject should be of particular interest inasmuch as for some time past the press and public had been decrying the lack of growth here and advancing the claim that the sister city down river was outstripping Janesville in the commercial race. This city, with its industries, would compare very favorably, he was certain, with any municipality in the state. Mr. Sutherland said that he had made a careful investigation to complete a somewhat imperfect list of the manufacturing industries in Janesville which he had prepared on a former occasion, that he had obtained the capital stock, gross product, etc., and thought that he had located every factory in the city. Without exception he had found them prosperous and in making his explorations he had been surprised at the variety and quantity of the output. All individuals or corporations engaged in making articles sold outside the city, he had classed as factories and he had located 98 of them with a capital stock of $3,019,000 producing annually a product valued at $4,501,000. The concerns listed by the speaker manufacture such a variety of products as sugar, beer, canned corn, krait, and pickles, plows, harrows, lightning rods, boat canopies, punches and shears, candy, ice cream, butter, brick, cement, posts and blocks, soda and mineral water, pins, floor, paper boxes, tobacco cases, interior finishing, artificial limbs, corsets, fountain pens, barbers' supplies, fish-food, picture frames, plated goods, brooms, underwear, stockings, overalls, wind-mills, tables, and barrels.

Fountain Pen Industry

George S. Parker gave a very interesting description of the rubber industry and the process of baking the pure para product with sulphur in the manufacture of the pen barrels. The turning of these barrels on lathes running 1,800 revolutions a minute, the knives with right angled edges, the acid treatment, the polishing and burnishing, the division of labor which makes it necessary for even the little "lucky-curve" to undergo 14 changes in hands, and other phases of the local work were all narrated. One-sixth of the Parker Pen Co.'s business is export business and it is the expectation that the sales in South America will be doubled in a very short time. Sixty people are employed in the office and factory and the payroll is $25,000 a year. Advertising is a large item of expense—$5,000 was expended in this department during the single month of December, but it was justified by the fact that it brought the concern the largest business it had ever enjoyed.

Local Cotton Products

Charles Mudgett of the Rock River Cotton Co. told about the cotton industry from a local viewpoint, calling attention at the outset to the magnitude of the cotton business—3,750,000 bales, valued at 10 cents a pound or $375 a bale, exported from this country during the past five months. The textile mills of United States consume each year approximately 3,000,000 bales, part of which come to our own city to be made into cotton battings, quilts, mattresses, and wrapping twine. The battings constitute the principal item and the process of manufacture out of staple cotton being very simple (staple cotton being cotton with a fibre). It comes ginned (that is, the seed removed) in 500-pound bales tightly pressed. When it has been loosened and the leaf and seeds tanned out, it is ready for the carding or combing which straightens out the fibre and gets it into sheet form. Then it is cut automatically to the desired weight and length, rolled by machinery, papered and cased by hand. The lower grade, obtained from the second ginning of the seeds, is short and often dark and has to be put through a bleaching process. It is placed in a boiler, subjected to a heavy pressure of steam, and cooked several hours until the natural oil is removed. Then it is immersed in a solution of lime for four or five more hours, rinsed in a vat of pure water, passing through the drying machine, issuing whiter than the natural fibre. This process in no way adds to its utility or intrinsic value; in fact it is really less valuable for wear than it was before; but the trade demands it. Approximately 1/2 of the factory cost is devoted to improving the appearance of the goods without in any way adding to their worth. The cost of "beautifying" the wrapping twine is also a large element. The Janesville product is marketed largely in the west and northwest, though some of it goes as far east as Philadelphia and as far south as New Orleans.

F. S. Baines on Tobacco

F. S. Baines' paper on the tobacco industry was of absorbing interest. Several of the more important compilations are given above. The speaker said that if he should attempt to give the combinations which enter into cigars he would be certain to get into trouble. Indeed, he was persuaded that if the representatives at Washington should pass a pure smoke bill, it would develop that most of his hearers were puffing Wisconsin fillers instead of the Havanas they supposed they were enjoying. He had been able to locate but 7 of the 10 local cigar factories mentioned by Mr. Sutherland. Janesville had not participated very largely in the 14-billion increase over the 8-billion manufactured output of 1905, which had demonstrated the fact that the cigar industry is growing so rapidly that the growers have not been able to keep up with it and explains the local scramble for the 1906 crop. The local cigar factories are small and but 30 hands are employed. When prices for raw material reach a normal stage again, there would be entirely feasible. The city was quite as well, if not better located, than Binghamton, N. Y., and other large centers. At the conclusion of his leaf industry summary Mr. Baines offered the following apostrophe in verse:

Weed of the strange flower, weed of the earth—
Killer of dullness, parent of mirth
Come in the sad hour, come in the gay—
Appear in the night, or in the day—
Still thou art welcome, as June's blooming rose

Joy of the palate; delight of the nose.

Porch-Shades.

A. C. Hough of the Hough Porch Shade Corporation said that publicity was an important factor in the success of his business—the more it given the shades, the more privacy the shades give the people. The difficulty of getting machinery which would make strips of the required length; the competition with Japanese bamboo and German products made by cheap labor; the fact that bass-wood lumber is difficult to procure and spoils quickly, that it can be handled successfully only at certain temperatures, and that but 18 per cent of the best raw material can be used; the delicate work of handling the chemicals used in coloring; the necessity of devising new styles each year; the disadvantages of the present location in devising new machinery and securing the right kind of artisans; and the overshadowing advantages of Janesville as a shipping point, as a buying point for raw material, and the excellent banking facilities here, were all set forth.

Janesville Tables.

Under the title "How to Provide Means to Support Your Board," A. N. Gleason of the Choate-Hollister factory discussed the manufacture of tables in Janesville. After an allusion to the vast store of knowledge he had accumulated in 60 days, the speaker went back to the first table of the man—board laid across the knees with genuine legs for support. He lingered for a moment with the improvements made by the Romans and then vaulted clear across the centuries to the triumph of table art as exemplified by the Choate-Hollister line. Through the average couple buys two tables in a lifetime, to meet the demand manufacturers must get out two new lines each year and styles must change as often as women's hats. Plain and quartered oak and mahogany are the timbers used in the manufacture and the two factories here annually consume a million feet. There are 125 factories in the country and Janesville has two of them, employing about 75 men, with an annual payroll of $50,000, and an output valued at $150,000.

Department of Commerce.

Prof. D. Earl Burchell of the department of commerce, U. of W., explained the purposes of his department to help the manufacturers of the state solve their problems, much the same as the agricultural department had done in assisting the farmers. He took issue with the general attitude that "we don't want book men to teach us anything about our business," and showed where the new department could be of assistance in making available current technical knowledge, in training men by correspondence as well as on the campus for business careers, by ascertaining by investigation the best processes employed in certain trades, the cost systems in vogue in all parts of the country, etc. All of this is to be done by cooperation with the manufacturers of the state and the speaker expressed the wish that he might be given the opportunity to visit all the local factories.

Janesville Machine Co.

Joseph L. Hay told about "Things that Lighten Men's Burdens," particularly the modern sulky plow with its share of soft-center-steel and footfall, the disk harrow, the corn planter which, carefully drops two or three kernels, regularly or alternately in the hills and a quantity of fertilizer along with them, if desired, and the only balance frame cultivator made in the United States, all of which the Janesville Machine Co. is manufacturing. Speaking of the corn planter Mr. Hay said that in Iowa alone the million acres produced 400,000,000 bushels and that it was estimated by Prof. Storm of the agricultural college at Ames, that with an accurate planter 1 1/2 bushels could have been added to each acre. The enormous crops of the past year and the car shortage were discussed by Leader Craig and others. Wisconsin was ranked 7th in corn production, so far as quantity is concerned, though the latest official reports show that it is first in the yield, average to the acre—41.2 bushels to Iowa's 39.5, Illinois' 36.1, etc.

In the police court this morning the case of the State vs. Nancy J. Tabbs was continued for a week. Counsel for defense, Messrs. Case and Allen.

Fixing It Up.—The insurance companies are repairing the damage to the jail, suffered by the recent fire. It will not probably exceed a hundred or two dollars.

In Possession.—Capt. Putnam has taken possession of the jail, and is settling things to rights for living. His predecessor, Mr. Winchester, has moved his family to Beloit, his old place of residence.

Grand Skating.—The skating on the river was probably never better than now. The ice is tolerably smooth and the river is frozen over so as to make a stretch of many miles of available room for this healthful exercise. Should snow fall to any considerable extent, a club should be formed to clear the ice.

Snow.—The effort at a snow storm today has been decidedly weak, and not enough has thus far fallen to hide the ground. A few inches of snow with the roads in their present good condition would make excellent sleighing.

At the annual meeting of the Rock County Agricultural Society held in the Court Room in the city of Janesville on the 29th of December, 1866, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That all premiums awarded by this society, unless called for within six months after the publication of this notice, shall be considered forfeited.

Resolved, That we resume the holding of our Sale and Exchange Days on the last Saturday of March next, and continue them on the last Saturday of each month until October following.

Before The Footlights.

"International success" fully describes the offering at the Myers Theatre tonight—Andre Messager's tuncful and picturesque comic opera "The Flower Girl."

The "Flower Girl," with its Parisian love romance of the pleasure-seeking days of King Louis Philippe. "The Flower Girl" was received with delight by the Parisians, and ran for almost two years in the Apollo Theatre, London. It made a high artistic success at the Broadway Theatre, Manhattan, last season, playing there five months.

The Shuberts will give it here with the original London scenery and costumes, but with a thoroughly American cast. The part of the flower girl Veronique, will be sung by Louise Gunning, and Louis Harrison (not Lee Harrison) will provoke mirth as N. Gougnard the whimsical proprietor of the flower shop. The play concerns the escapade of a court maid of honor, Helene de Solanges, who, finding herself formally betrothed in a most unexpected manner to a spendthrift young nobleman, Florestan de Vallancourt, discovers that causing a cavalier amusing himself in flirtations with her bouquet of pretty flower-girls.

Helene masquerades as a flower girl and accompanies the girls on the picnic. Florestan gives as his farewell to the masquerading cupid with orange blossoms in the bouquet reception place of the Tuileries. The three-act piece is said to be brimful of sparkling contrasts in the matter of scenery and costumes.

The Messrs. Shubert wish to announce that this attraction is positively their original "Flower Girl" production—not a makeshift organization purposely weakened for small-town tours; as most Broadway successes are equipped for traveling purposes. The piece will be presented with every big and little bit of the immense scenic detail that made the New York production famous; one hundred stage-artists are employed, and a specially enlarged orchestra will be in order.

Mr. Louis Harrison as Mons. Gougnard is said to be more happily cast in "The Flower Girl" than ever before in his many years of stage life. What with Harrison's humor, Louise Gunning's beauty and sweet singing, and the Shuberts' declaration as to the wholesomeness of the production in general, we may safely promise ourselves an evening of delightful entertainment when "The Flower Girl" comes to town.

The leading lady of "The Hair to the Moor" company is Janet Beecher, one of the original "Gibson Girls" in "The Education of Mr. Pipp." Miss Beecher had the distinction of being especially picked out from among the hundreds who were eager to be stage "Gibson Girls," by Charles Dana Gibson and Augustus Thomas, as the one actress best suited, both physically and temperamentally, to portray this exacting role. Miss Beecher should be a valuable addition to the remaining contingent with "The Hair to the Moorah" soon to return to Myers Theatre.

Arthur Deagon, of the Henry W. Savage forces, has been engaged by the Askin-Singer company, to play the leading role in "The Time, the Place and the Girl." The part, that of a sunny, good-natured "sport," would seem to be peculiarly suited to Mr. Deagon's infectious style of comedy.

Mild weather, fairly good roads and a lively market are doing much to improve prices for local produce. Prices may vary a trifle from the above quotations at different stores but the average has been reached and the above figures are practically correct. Rye is being bought at 60 cents for sixty pounds, instead of 57 as last week, while barley has dropped from 45 to 35 to 40. Oats have risen from 28 to 32 to 30 to 34. Straw is now worth $6 per ton baled. Dairy butter is worth 28 to 29 and creamery has gone up a half cent to 32 1/2. Eggs have come down with the warm weather to 26 cents for the fresh and may possibly go lower. The tobacco warehousemen complain that they are being asked to accept more tobacco just now than they can really well handle. The warm, wet weather has placed the crop on the market much earlier than usual and, consequently everyone is trying to deliver at once.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

WHEN A "LITTLE FOLLY" IS GOOD SENSE

A great writer has claimed that "sometimes there are incidents in our lives the skillful extrication from which demands a little folly!" This truth is especially applicable to store-keeping. Now and then a merchant has made an error of judgment, and finds that he is greatly over-stocked on some particular line of goods. This is always one of the serious "incidents" of store-keeping; and to "skillfully extricate" himself from it requires a two-fold use of "a little folly." He must, as a first piece of "folly," under-price this stock of goods—sustaining perhaps a slight loss on his original investment, or—at best—"breaking even" on it. His second act of "folly" must be to invest in additional newspaper space in which to adequately advertise this event. The extra expenditure for advertising amounts to an investment in public favor—a commodity which pays dividends always, and never fails when dividends are most needed. The merchant benefits by such indulgence in a "little folly," and the general public secures the direct and immediate profit from the "incident."

GOVERNOR DAVIDSON

Governor Davidson is no longer serving out an inherited term. The simple inaugural ceremonies completed the work of the people at the polls, last November, and for the first time he becomes the governor in fact, free and untrammelled.

That he fully appreciates the situation as well as the responsibility connected with it, will not be questioned. He is the governor of all the people, elected by a flattering majority of the republican party, working as a unit after years of strife and bitter conflict.

It is an honor which any man would appreciate, and which is fully recognized by the governor-elect, and it is safe to say that his administration will be free from prejudice, and wholesome.

The state has been in the throes of reform for the past half dozen years. Some of the measures adopted have been helpful, while others have been harmful. The voice of the reformer is much more strident than the voice of the people, and this sort of clamor is frequently mistaken for public sentiment.

The constitutional amendment which created the primary law, was passed by a small minority of the voters, the majority not caring enough about it to vote.

The law in force last fall, was supported by less than 30 per cent of the voters, 70 per cent being too indifferent to give any attention to nominations.

What is true of this measure is true of many others, advocated so lustily by men who have seen a vision, and who imagine that the American people are unconsciously suffering from oppression and bondage.

The present legislature is committed to reform, not because the state is suffering for it, but because it was a political issue, and that itself made a reformer of every candidate.

The governor has common sense, and will appreciate this fact. The state, as well as the nation, needs a breathing spell, and when the fever of agitation subsides, and normal conditions are restored, it will be discovered that things are better than they seem.

RETIRING FROM BUSINESS

"So many captains of industry in the United States are retiring practically from business lately," says the Boston Globe, "as to cause considerable surprise. These men have been connected with colossal industrial enterprises for many years and are now quietly cutting themselves adrift from further active service therewith. By so doing, however, it must not be supposed that they will cease to take a keen interest in the important enterprises they have started and built up, or that they will no longer reap a pecuniary profit from them. But the active management of the various corporations with which they have been identified so long will pass into younger hands and the elders will be relieved from the mental strain they have endured for an extended period."

"This sort of partial retirement from active business by men who are advancing in years is sensible. Financiers and others who have labored hard by day and far into the night are wisely paying attention to their mental limitations and are figuring on passing the last score of years of life with more regard to their physical wellbeing.

"There are exceptions, of course, to this class—men who may be said to be money-mad—who will continue to chase the almighty dollar as long as their palsied hands can hold money. These money-mad individuals will not do much good with their money or ever know the pleasure to be derived from helping others.

"Examples of the unhappiness of the positively retired man are very common. Such an individual becomes hopeless in spite of pleasant surroundings and often actually rusts out very quickly. He has no ambition and wanders aimlessly about, miserable for want of something to do, yet envied by the thoughtless. All individuals are seeking rest, but 'absence of occupation is not rest.'"

"Above all else, the man who does some good with his money or talents in this world, whether he has a short or a long life, will be classed among the most useful citizens and will be mourned sincerely when he does cease his earthly career."

Some of the retirements going on at the present time are not due to old age nor impairment of faculties. The bitter warfare being made on corporations and wealth, has so disgusted men with money, that many of them feel like getting out from under the burdens and abandoning the field.

This is a feature of the situation that agitators do not take into account, and yet it is a most important feature. Capital, always timid, is never more so than when ruthlessly attacked, and the man of wealth comes nearer being a by-word today, than at any time in the history of the nation.

So many appeals have been made to ignorance and prejudice that the public mind is saturated with poison, and unless the tide is checked, and conditions changed, by an era of common sense, results are bound to be disastrous.

The President and his cabinet realize the dangers of the situation, and a note of warning has been sounded. It remains to be seen whether the people will heed it.

Secretary Taft is in the limelight, just now, as the most available candidate for president in 1908. The secretary is undecided as to whether the endorsement of President Roosevelt will do him more harm than good.

The output of American automobiles for 1906 amounted to $60,000,000. For an infant industry this is a remarkable showing.

PRESS COMMENT.

Man of Many Parts

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: In addition to his modern messages President Roosevelt is writing an essay on "The Ancient Irish Sagas."

Still Years to Serve

Green Bay Gazette: Retiring Treasurer Kempf's anxiety over being able to conduct a saloon in Madison probably arises from a desire to continue to serve the people.

Doesn't Ring Right, Somehow

El Paso Herald: President Roosevelt will not allow his photographs to adorn the walls of saloons and dives, and they will be removed by secret service men. That sounds kaiserlike.

Where Elks Buy Their Own

Rockford Register-Gazette: The world is growing better. Milwaukee Elks have put the taboo on the treating system. This rule has been in force in the Rockford lodge ever since it was organized.

So Simple It Sounds Foolish

La Crosse Tribune: There are so many local factories which offer children a salary with a course in manual training, that it would seem folly to put the city to the expense of conducting such a department of education.

Railroad Divorce-Court Methods

Sheboygan Journal: Mr. Harriman and Mr. Leeds, two mushroom millionaires, have arranged for the Union Pacific to have control of the Alton railroad one year, and the Rock Island, the next year, for a period of ten years. This is applying the methods of divorce courts to railroad operation in a new way.

There's Always Something Worse

Exchange: A temperance lecturer inquired, "What is viler than the smell of liquor?" The Kansas City Journal answers, "Well, a stale pipe is not often mistaken for a geranium. Then there is limburger cheese."

Mighty Issues, Maybe

Racine Journal: Whether Ekern or Leroy as to the speakership of the assembly. Raise the banners, sound the tocsin of battle. Mighty issues are involved, maybe. Thousands of citizens will witness from a safe distance the gladiators at Madison.

Foredoomed

Beloit Free Press: "The Wisconsin legislature will hold a short session this year." Every year this assertion is made by some prophet, notwithstanding the fact that members have to send home for linen coats and gauze underwear before they pack their plunder boxes and buy railroad tickets for home.

A Tangle in High Life

El Paso Herald: At a white house reception the wife of a representative from a back woods "deestrick" got her ribbons and chiffons entangled with the gold lace, medals and resplendent decorations of a major general. Her husband called to her and she answered: "Yes dear, I'm coming as soon as I can get loose from this drum major."

Good Advice to Lawyers

Superior Telegram: At a lawyer's dinner the other day Joseph H. Choate counseled his legal brethren to make a New Year's resolution to be courteous in the cross examination of witnesses, adding that rudeness and discourtesy hurt the cause of the lawyer who employs them. Mr. Choate's suggestion is a good one. When a lawyer is permitted to abuse an honest witness and to represent him as being a liar and perjurer who has entered into a conspiracy to defeat justice the people lose some of their respect for the court where such things are possible.

Bob Looking for More Trouble?

Oshkosh Northwestern: It is hinted that if Senator La Follette persists in pushing the candidacy of Assemblyman Ekern for the speakership it may result in an open breach between the senator and Mr. Stephenson, the latter being deeply interested in the success of his fellow townsman, Mr. Leroy, who is also a candidate for the same honor. Senator La Follette has succeeded in breaking friendship with a good many of his former ardent friends and supporters, and he may possibly have reached the conclusion it will do no particular harm to add "Uncle Ike" to this list.

Specialization in the Hideos

Exchange: Reform as it is expounded by certain journals of the east are of various and varying brands, some of which have every appearance of being good while others beneath the thin gloss of virtue show their coloring. William Baird Hale, managing editor of the Philadelphia Ledger, has on various occasions taken Collier's Weekly to task but never gave it a more scathing denunciation than in the following which is an extract from an address before the Contemporary club of that city:

"We glance at the publication which Mr. Harpod conducts with such signal ability, and what do we find? We find its whole strength and genius bent to persuade us that the financial world is a structure of corruption; that the United States treasury is criminally inefficient; that the United States senate is a club of disolute and incapable millionaires, and the house a lair of abducts whose chief business is the promotion of private graft bills; that war pensioners are dead beats; that college athletic victories are bought and sold; that conspirators are running off with Niagara Falls; that grocers are thieves and druggists murderers; that the press is venal and the pulpit invertebrate; that the whole activity of man is larceny, bribery, bank wrecking, franchise grabbing, blackmail, the concoction of fraudulent foods and deadly drinks. We find running a department called 'Things They Do Better Abroad.' We find a corps of talented artists, drawing vultures, vampires, vipers, yellow dogs, death's heads, prisons, burning houses, graveyards, and grinning degenerates."

"And this is offered by a national weekly as a picture of life today. Rubbish! There isn't living a cynic so grouchy and dyspeptic that he doesn't know it to be a hideous and ghastly caricature. For the life of me I can not see any more to despise in the yellow society sheet that assassinates private reputations than there is to regret in a yellow weekly that systematically calumniates public institutions and undermines confidence in the general good faith and moral purpose upon which the whole fabric of social order rests."

"For some time past I've been buying a dozen eggs every week at the store, and I invariably find two bad ones in every dozen. Something's got to be done about it," said an irate housekeeper. "Well," said the new clerk nervously, and with a quiet smile, "maybe if you only bought half a dozen, you'd get one bad one."

A Story of Ole Bull.

A curious tale of Ole Bull is told in a book on violins and violinists. It seems that in 1831, being then twenty-one years of age, the famous violinist wandered to Paris. The cholera was raging and Malibran singing. He went to hear her, and his landlord decamped with his possessions, including his violin. He was speedily reduced to extremity. During the last dinner that he was able to pay for he made the acquaintance of a remarkable man. To this stranger Ole Bull confided his miseries. At the conclusion the stranger said abruptly, "Well, I will do something for you if you have courage and 5 francs." "I have both," said Bull. "Then go to Frascati's tonight at 10 o'clock, pass through the first room, go into the second, where they play rouge et noir, and when a new table begins put your 5 francs on rouge and leave it there." Bull did as directed, and when his 5 francs had become 400 he took them up after an episode with a woman who attempted to take them. Red continued to win, and had left his money longer he would have won an independent sum. The stranger, who was present as his elbow, was Vidocq, the French detective, already a European celebrity.

How to Remove a Corn: Try It. Expose the corn and pass the finger tips of your right hand over it slowly and caressingly, at the same time sending a vibration from the brain to the corn. If it is a soft corn 413 vibrations per second will suffice; if a hard corn, put on a forced draft. Repeat slowly. "I am now sending a current of thought force into my corn and so separating, deducing, disintegrating, rendering, splitting, sundering, splintering, snipping, dwelling, whittling, dispersing, dislocating, eliding, divorcing, pulverizing, slashing, slicing and dissecting it that presently it will pass away. Repeat it three times; then, with rising intonation, 'Avant, avant, avant!' Finish by repeating the password: 'The universe is mine. I am it.' The corn will at first look extremely surprised, then wilt and fade beautifully from sight.—New Thought.

READERS OF ADVERTISEMENT'S

HAVE LEARNED

To "Make a Body of a Limb"

Shakespeare urged people to "LEARN TO MAKE A BODY OF A LIMB"—to mentally construct the whole of a man, a claim, an enterprise, a plan, an institution—from a fragment, an inkling, a hint.

Most of the world's people have learned this lesson, in some degree. Seeing a limb which should be an under-sized body, the average person now-a-days declines to credit an enthusiastic statement that the body to which it belongs is really of Titanic size!

Readers of newspapers have become adepts at this art of constructing a body from a limb. Especially is this true of those who read advertisements. It is no longer possible for a store to create the impression of BIGNESS and IMPORTANCE and ENTERPRISE if the store's advertising—WHICH IS THE "LIMB" THE READERS SEE—is small, inadequate, spasmodic, unmagentic, unalluring.

If a big store is content with an advertising appropriation and campaign which would be adequate only for a small store—the big store will be THOUGHT of as a small store—it will be logically constructed into a non-enterprising store.

The shrewd merchant sees to it that his advertising SHOWING in the newspaper is proportioned to his store's importance in the community—so that the most casual reader, accustomed to "make a body of a limb," may also, with absolute certainty,

"Make a Store From An Ad."

GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY.

The Land of Proverbial Milk and Honey.

We are now in a position to offer you irrigated or non-irrigated land in sunny Alberta Canada, direct from the Canadian Pacific R. R. Co.

We say, and prove it by government records that Alberta is by long odds from the standpoint of climate the cream of grain growing provinces. It is verily the Colorado of Canada. Mean temperature at Calgary: Summer, 58.8; Winter, 13.9; Year, 37.4. Above zero.

It is not to the speculator who wants to buy a large tract of land and quietly waits for the settler to improve all the adjacent land and thus double the value of his land, but to the man who is a tiller of the soil and can sell the land that cost him $10 to $20 per acre for $75 to $100 per acre, also to all renters who are paying rent enough every year to make good payment on a farm of their own and in a country where cattle and horses graze the whole year. A word to the man in the city who feels the land hunger and longs to get away from the treadmill of the city or serfdom of the factory; to the young man with a brave heart and brawny muscle, starting out in life to make home and fortune; to every man who wants an opportunity for a profitable farming and at the same time to profit by the inevitable rapid rise in land values; to the man who seeks a home in a delightful climate and a sure fortune that will reward his honest, industrious efforts, to the man who wants to better himself and family; to the man of modest means who longs for a comfortable fortune; to the man who knows by experience or belief that irrigation is the sure way of farming; to the man who is capable of seeing the opportunity of a lifetime and has the courage to grasp that opportunity we appeal. We have something for such men.

DEBT OF MILTON COLLEGE LIFTED

DR. JAS. MILLS HAS BEEN PROMISED $6,500.

GIFT BY ANDREW CARNEGIE

Sum Represents the Balance Due on Whitford Memorial Hall Which Was Completed Last Autumn.

Three years of effort on the part of Dr. James Mills of this city, President Daland, and others interested in Milton College to persuade the great luncheoner to lend assistance in the building of Whitford Memorial hall, the library and science building which was completed by Blair & Summers last fall, have brought their reward, as evidenced by the following letter received this morning:

ANDREW CARNEGIE,
2 East 91 St.
New York, Jan. 5, 1907.
Dr. James Mills,
Trustee, Milton College,
Janesville, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir:—
Yours of December 29th received. Mr. Carnegie notes that you are erecting a Science Hall, also to contain library and other accommodations, at a cost of $22,500, of which you have succeeded in raising all but $6,500. Mr. Carnegie will be glad to donate this sum to the college, so that it will have this building, free from debt. His cashier will send you the amount at an early date.

Respectfully yours,
JAS. BERTRAM,
P. Sec.

When the building was first contemplated an unsuccessful effort was made to interest Andrew Carnegie, but letters written by both President Daland and his predecessor brought no response. Dr. Mills was unwilling to give up the attempt and wrote to his old friend, Dr. A. M. Stewart of New York, editor of the Scotch-American and an intimate friend of Mr. Bertram and an acquaintance of Mr. Carnegie. It was Mr. Stewart, it will be remembered, who assisted in getting the matter of a donation for the Janesville library before the Ironmaster.

Last year, just before Mr. Carnegie sailed for Europe, a blank paper calling for all sorts of information in most exacting detail, relating to the college, the number of graduates, the cost of buildings, outstanding debt, and names of donors and amounts, was received here. Nothing could be done about the matter until his return. In the meantime the college authorities went ahead and completed the building, borrowing the necessary $6,500 to piece out the donations. On December 29 Dr. Mills forwarded all the information, up to date, which President Daland was able to furnish, and sent a strong appeal to Mr. Carnegie, stating that the alumni of the college had been pressed for all the money they seemed able to give and that the raising of the balance due had become a very serious problem. He did not forget to say that there were many Scotchmen interested in the college who would appreciate the donation, should Mr. Carnegie see fit to make it.

A Mrs. Babcock, residing in the east, has given $5,000 to be used in equipping the library and science hall and this sum will at once become available, now that the debt is raised. About 100 students are attending the institution this year and the outlook is exceptionally bright.

RAN QUARTER MILE WITH TRUCK BROKEN

Accident to Train Due Here at 4:45 Yesterday Afternoon Delayed It Till 6:30 This Morning.

The St. Paul Railway company's Plattville-Janesville passenger train due here at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon was wrecked two miles east of Darlington and did not reach this city till half-past six o'clock this morning. The accident occurred while the engine was pulling at full speed up-grade. A truck on the tender broke and before the injury was noticed by either the fireman or the baggageman the entire truck turned sideways. The air hose was broken in this way and before the train could be brought to a halt a distance of a quarter of a mile had been traversed. The air was cut and torn by the wheel flanges, but seemingly by miracle no other train was derailed.

OBITUARY.

Thomas A. Logan.
Edward Bingham of Koshkonong sends to the Gazette an extended obituary notice, from the Cincinnati Times-Star, of December 29, of the death of Judge Thomas A. Logan, for more than 50 years a prominent member of the Ohio bar. Judge Logan was 78 years old. He had been in failing health for some time and practically retired from active business some years ago, although he retained his old office until his death.

He possessed a bright, intelligent mind and a warm and generous heart. His love for field sports and outdoor life was his pastime, and for 25 years was a familiar figure at Koshkonong, where Janesville hunters had the pleasure of meeting him. "Bingham's point" was known for many years as Logan's point. The old man occupied it year after year, until compelled to give up the sport by the infirmities of age. His only son, George, is lieutenant commander in the United States navy, his latest work, completing a survey of the Panama coast for the government, gave him prominence.

SAYS NEGROES ARE UNFIT FOR ARMY

CONGRESSMAN SLAYDEN OF TEXAS MAKES SPEECH.

EXPOSES BAD RECORD

Twenty-Fifth Regiment Often in Trouble Before—Senate Leaders Promoting Harmony on the Question.

Washington, Jan. 9.—An echo of the Brownsville assault by negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry was heard Tuesday in the house. Mr. Slayden of Texas told anew, and with considerable detail, the story of that August night of last year when the colored troops, as alleged, "shot up" the town of Brownsville in this state. He was advocating his bill to discontinue the enlistment of negroes.

Incident to the story of the shooting and defense of the citizens of Brownsville, Mr. Slayden devoted much time to a careful analysis of the conditions of the white and black races and said that race prejudice was at the bottom of the assault.

"In the history of the negro troops in the United States," said Mr. Slayden "one finds many chapters that tell of violent breaches of discipline, of riotous and riotous conduct, of murder and race hostility."

Unfit for American Soldiers.

In declaring the negro race to be unfit for American soldiers, the Texas congressman said he had in view only the circumstances of their service. He did not impugn their physical courage. "This is a virtue," he said, "that belongs to nearly all men, and if there is any difference between savage and civilized man in this respect the superiority possibly lies with the savage, who is undeterred from rash ventures by thought of the consequences."

Mr. Slayden spoke of the sympathy that welds people into a homogeneous political and social mass, but said that "it has never existed and never will exist between negroes and Caucasians."

Regiment Has Bad Record.

Mr. Slayden recited the history of the Twenty-fifth infantry and said it has "a particularly vicious record," and, going into particulars, he said that while stationed at Fort Meade, S. D., in the summer of 1895, a corporal of that regiment murdered a citizen and the people of the community lynched the murderer. About three weeks after the lynching 15 or 20 negro soldiers raided and "shot up" the town of Sturgis, which is only a mile and a half from the post.

According to Mr. Slayden's narrative, Winnemucca, Nev., was the next scene of a criminal outbreak by this regiment. Then came an outbreak at Fort Niobrara, Neb., where a "wanton and cold-blooded murder" was committed. Other instances of lawlessness by negro troops were also detailed.

Harmony in Senate?

Practically all of Tuesday was given over by senate leaders of both parties to an effort to bring about harmony between opposing views concerning the proposed investigation of the affair at Brownsville. What amounts to an agreement between Senators Foraker and Lodge has been attained by their friends, but inasmuch as it was decided not to present the compromise until all of the senators desiring to do so had made speeches on the subject of the dismissal of the negro troops, it is not absolutely certain that the peace plans will not be upset.

The compromise is not greatly different from the resolution presented by Senator Lodge and a similar one which Senator Foraker had intended to offer as a substitute for his original resolution. It provides for the investigation by the senate committee on military affairs of the affair at Brownsville, and to this is to be added provisions that a subcommittee be sent to Brownsville and that the expenses of the investigation be paid out of the contingent fund of the senate. Such a resolution would ignore the constitutional and legal questions that have been debated for several days in the senate.

President Ripley Relates How He Got Control of Roads.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Disclosures of E. H. Harriman's method of obtaining a voice in control of railroads without the knowledge of the president of the road were made by President E. P. Ripley of the Atchafalpa, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad Tuesday afternoon at the hearing of the interstate commerce commission. In response to questions directed by Attorney Kellogg for the government, Mr. Ripley said that the first intimation he had that the Union Pacific owned $100,000,000 of Santa Fe stock was in press dispatches from New York.

According to Mr. Ripley's testimony Harriman's practice was to get control of the stock without making the transfer appear on the stock transfer books of the railroad companies.

MEXICAN TROOPS SHOOT STRIKERS

THIRTY KILLED AND EIGHTY WOUNDED AT NOGALES.

RIOTS NOW SUPPRESSED

Property Worth $1,500,000 Destroyed by the Mill Workers—Jails Thrown Open and Prisoners Set Free.

City of Mexico, Jan. 9.—Reports received Tuesday evening from Nogales, in the Orixaba mill district, indicate that the government has completely mastered the situation. The strikers have ceased all acts of violence in the presence of the large body of troops rushed there from the capital and nearby garrisons. The seriousness of the affair, however, was realized when it was made known that 30 of the workmen were killed outright and over 80 wounded by the soldiers, who were compelled to fire on the main body of the rioters before they could be dispersed.

It was learned that the men, after pillaging the stores at the Rio Blanco mills, became emboldened by their success. A part of them rushed to Nogales, a short distance away, where another mill is located. Telegraph, telephone and electric light wires were cut and pawn shops and even private houses were pillaged. Then the jails were thrown open and the prisoners set free. Residents of the mill district fled in terror to the city of Orixaba.

Deadly Volley by Troops.

When the strikers reached Nogales one mill official and a gendarme from Orixaba made an ineffectual attempt to check them. A striker named Morelos threw a huge stone at Senator Herrera, mayor of the city of Orixaba, striking the official on the head and badly wounding him. Herrera arose from where he had fallen and shot Morelos, killing him instantly. A body of troops arrived and the strikers attempted to resist, a volley was fired into the mob killing 30 and wounding over 80.

The government has learned that a committee of strikers has left Orixaba for Tlalcala, Puebla and other cities to incite laborers at those points to strike. It was also learned that one man well-known to the police had left for the Isthmus of Tehuantepec on a like mission. All of these men are being pursued by the federal authorities.

The value of the property destroyed by the strikers totals $1,500,000. All of the destroyed property was owned by Eduardo Garcia, a citizen of France.

Fire in the Barracks.

Tuesday one of the barracks buildings, in which a regiment of soldiers is quartered, was discovered on fire and for a time consternation reigned as it was thought that a conspiracy existed in the troops. This was discovered to be untrue when the soldiers turned their attention to extinguishing the flames. The cause of the fire is unknown.

A second incident, which may cause trouble and take on an international aspect, was the killing by the strikers of two citizens of Spain.

FIGHT ON GREAT NORTHERN BEGUN

LEGAL BATTLE OVER STOCK ISSUE ON AT ST. PAUL.

RAILWAY MAKES ANSWER

Justifies Its Action Under Charter and Official Advice—Opening Argument by Attorney General Young.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 9.—The legal battle started by the state of Minnesota to determine the necessity for the issue of the proposed $60,000,000 worth of Great Northern railroad stock began in the Ramsey county district court here Tuesday before Judge Hallam.

The state claims that the Great Northern railroad in promoting this issue of stock failed to take into consideration a state law which provides that due application shall first be made for a hearing before the state railroad and warehouse commission as to the necessity for the issue and for what purpose the money is to be expended before such an issue can be made. The state in its bill of complaint avers that if such an issue of stock be made it will greatly increase freight and passenger rates in the state and that the patrons of the railroad will have to bear the burden of the increase.

Answer of Railroad.

The Great Northern in its answer, which was read in court Tuesday, set forth that it had the right to issue this stock by authority of the charter of the Minneapolis & St. Cloud railroad granted by the territory of Minnesota in 1856, and by acts amendatory thereto passed in 1855, in which the Minneapolis & St. Cloud railroad was given the right to issue one or more classes of preferred stock in an amount not to exceed $30,000,000. The answer claims that all outstanding stock is preferred stock and that none of its common stock has been issued. It further claims that all of the $60,000,000 of stock will be preferred stock and none of it common stock. Continuing the answer says:

"Prior to February, 1890, the defendant issued preferred stock of $25,000,000 under section 10, act of February 28, 1895."

"That since that date it has issued in the aggregate $125,000,000 of said preferred or special stock and that it has been sold at par for cash and is now outstanding in the hands of the public."

"The provisions of this defendant's charter under which this defendant is organized constitute a valid contract and that chapter 265 general laws of 1887, section 2872 is invalid as applied to said charter, and is void because it attempts to impair the obligation of a contract in relation to the constitution of the state and of article 1, section 10 of the constitution."

Acted on Official Advice.

The answer then continues by saying that in 1898 the commission was advised that the railroad proposed to increase its capital stock, and that the question was submitted to Attorney General Childs, who advised the railway commission that the railroad had the lawful right to increase its capital stock without the consent of the commission and that two issues of $25,000,000 followed that opinion. The answer says these issues were made "openly and notoriously" with the full knowledge of the attorney general and the commission, and that no protest was made until this day.

Opening for State.

Attorney General Young, in opening his argument said that the right of the commission to give authority for the stock issue went to the vitals of the situation in respect to the protection which the state wished to grant the people. The defendant had issued $25,000,000 worth of stock a year ago and absolutely nothing had been heard of what had been done with the proceeds. He said it did not lie in the mouth of the attorney for the railroad to say that because the law had been violated in one instance it might be disregarded in another.

The law, he said, had never been repealed, and he did not believe Attorney General Childs had given the commission such an opinion as was said to have been given. The records of the attorney general's office did not reveal that such an opinion had been given, and if it had such an opinion would not be binding and the railroad was "playing the baby act." He said there could be no implied right, it must be expressly stated.

GREAT FIRE IN DETROIT

PLANT OF THE MICHIGAN STOVE WORKS IS GUTTED.

Loss Will Reach $750,000—Firemen Injured by Falling Debris and Spectators by Runaway Horses.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 9.—Fire gutted a great portion of the large plant of the Michigan Stove Works on Jefferson avenue Tuesday evening, causing a loss estimated at $750,000, while the entire plant was insured for but $350,000.

Upwards of 15,000 gas and coal stoves were ruined, and of the tremendous plant, covering an area of ten or twelve acres, only the office building, the foundries, and part of the storage building were saved, less than two-thirds of the entire establishment.

Several firemen were injured by falling debris and half a dozen spectators were hurt when the horses attached to one of the fire department wagons ran away into the enormous crowd that lined the street opposite the burning plant.

The fire broke out soon after six o'clock from some unknown cause in the buildings at the rear of the plant, which employs a total of 1,200 men. It spread with tremendous rapidity, and by the time the first detachments of the fire department arrived was beyond control. A general alarm was sent in for all the apparatus in the city, and for three hours there ensued the hardest fight the firemen have had in this city for several years. The glare of the flames was visible for five miles, and enormous crowds of people were attracted to the scene, necessitating the calling out of all the police reserves to keep them out of danger.

Five of the people injured by the runaway were taken to hospitals. An unidentified man is dying at St. Mary's hospital with his skull crushed by the horses' hoofs. Joseph E. Tack is in a critical condition with a fractured skull. Mrs. Tack, his wife, has a broken thigh and lesser injuries, and two men named Dixon and Brady have injuries which will not prove fatal. None of the firemen was seriously injured.

Spontaneous combustion in the stored coal is the only cause that can be assigned for the fire.

PLOT TO MURDER OFFICERS.

Belief at Fort Reno That Negro Conspiracy Existed.

El Reno, Okla., Jan. 9.—Belief of the army officers at Fort Reno that a conspiracy to murder every white officer there, beginning with Capt. Edgar A. Macklin, against whom nearly every negro soldier at the post entertained a personal grudge as a result of the affair at Brownsville, Tex., and the discharge of the negro soldiers that followed, became known Tuesday as a result of the preliminary hearing in the case of Edward L. Knowles, corporal of company A, Twenty-fifth infantry. He was held on a charge of assault with intent to kill Capt. Macklin.

All of the officers now go heavily armed and protected throughout the night. Every effort has been made by the officers to keep the alleged conspiracy a secret, but it is learned that an investigation is now being conducted at several army posts and important places throughout the country, and within a short time several arrests of the members of the troops recently discharged in disgrace are expected to follow.

Information was received here that the arrest of a negro soldier has been made at La Junta, Col. Suspicion rests upon negro soldiers at Fort Niobrara, Neb., and at three other points.

BRAVE ENGINEER SAVES TRAIN.

Badly Scalded, He Climbs to Express Car and Pulls Brake Rope.

Boone, Ia., Jan. 9.—After running wild for miles at 75 miles an hour with an engine out of control by the blowing out of a "stud" in its boiler, the Chicago & Northwestern fast mail train No. 10 was barely saved from destruction by the heroism of Engineer Louis Shull. He was blown from his seat by the scalding vapor and boiling water. It was impossible to reach the throttle, so he climbed out onto the tender and to the express car. The express messenger, fearing robbers, refused him admission. Shull hammered at the door and when it was suddenly opened the messenger stood in the way with a pair of pistols. When Shull finally staggered in bleeding and half dead, he just had enough strength to reach up and pull the rope connecting the air brake.

He says he possesses receipts that show he has turned into the treasury of the chapter more money than he is charged with embezzling.

CATARRH PREPARES THE SYSTEM FOR CONSUMPTION

While Catarrh in its first stages usually affects the head, it does not stop there if the trouble is allowed to run on. The contracting of a cold is generally the commencement of the unpleasant symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, nose stopped up, mucus dropping back into the throat, hawking and spitting, etc. The inner skin or mucous membrane of the body becomes inflamed and secretes an unhealthy matter which is absorbed into the blood, and Catarrh becomes a serious and dangerous blood disease. Every day the blood becomes more heavily loaded with these poisonous secretions, and as the poisoned blood constantly passes through the lungs they become diseased, and often Catarrh terminates in Consumption.

A SQUARE DEAL

Is assured you when you buy one of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formula are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native, medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. While potent to cure they are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children.

Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple-refined glycerine of proper strength. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable anti-septic and anti-ferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, "heartburn," foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures even in the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate hang-on, or chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

If the sweet taste of the "Discovery," caused by the glycerine, is disliked, a few drops of lemon juice, orange or lime juice, added to each dose will make it agreeable and pleasant and will not in the slightest interfere with its beneficial effects.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to endeavor to palm off upon you some nostrum of unknown composition in place of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines which are of KNOWN COMPOSITION. Most dealers recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines because they know what they are made of and that the ingredients employed are among the most valuable that a medicine for like purposes can be made of. The same is true of leading physicians who do not hesitate to recommend them, since they know exactly what they contain and that their ingredients are the very best known to medical science for the cure of the several diseases for which these medicines are recommended.

With tricky dealers it is different.

Something else that pays them a little greater profit will be urged upon you as "just as good," or even better. You can hardly afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition and without any particular record of cures in place of Dr. Pierce's medicines which are of KNOWN COMPOSITION and have a record of forty years of cures behind them. You know what you want and it is the dealer's business to supply that want. Insist upon it.

The smaller end of the "way line," a stout rope tapering from one inch to three inches in thickness, was spliced to the "drag line" and drawn down and under the supposed anchor until the latter was looped by it. Then the "messenger," an iron shackle or collar fastened by a bolt or pin, was clamped about the upper parts of the loop. To this "messenger" was also attached a small cord.

The "way line" was drawn tight, and the heavy "messenger" plunged out of sight beneath the water. It slid down to the end of the "way line," thus holding with a tenacious grip the submerged object. They tested with the "messenger," pulling it up with the cord and letting it drop again. It struck solidly and with the tangle of metal against metal.

Bradley pulled down the Lizzie. Barney and he hoisted canvas enough to give them stearage way, and the little vessel ran alongside of the captain's dory. Then the ropes were rigged through the block in the fore rigging, and Bradley and Barney fitted in the brakes of the clumsy hand windlass, while Captain Titcomb stood by the bulwark.

"Halt away!" commanded the skipper. The windlass creaked, the cable tightened and the blocks groaned as a heavy weight was lifted from the bottom. A minute or two more and the captain signaled to ease up.

"Look at that," said Captain Ezra, pointing. "What do you say to a bell-buoy frame?"

"Why, sure!" Bradley's tone was a disgusted one. "Well, we've had our work for nothing. That framework isn't worth anything."

"Taint the stockin' that counts anyway; it's what Santa Claus puts inside of it. I have a notion this feller may be a surprise package. Hilt away!"

More of the wet rope came aboard. Captain Ezra chuckled. "I guessed pretty high that time," he muttered. "Now, Brad, come here."

The iron frame, green with seaweed and trimmed with kelp and shells, hung half out of the water. At its base, just above the battered and crushed cone that had been the buoy, a big bronze bell glistened and dripped.

"And I can get $25 for that bell," crowed the captain, "which in the pres-compel her to believe in him and his work.

Dancing was one of the subjects on which they didn't agree. Bradley, considered dancing nonsensical and a waste of time. Gus, on the other hand, was very fond of it.

"I'd rather saw wood myself," declared the former one evening. "There'd be about as much work in it, and considerably more fun."

"But, Brad, I do like dancing, and there are dances here once in awhile, such as they are, and—well, I wish you danced."

"I suppose I could manage to navigate through a quadrille without wrecking more than half the set, but a waltz would have me out of soundings in no time."

"Will you try to learn if I teach you?"

"Think 'twill pay for the wear and tear on your nerves—and the furniture?"

"I'll risk the nerves, and we need some new furniture anyway. Come, we'll begin now. I'll hum the tune, and you can imagine that Bonnie D.'s three piece orchestra is playing 'Annie Rooney' with their own variations, and that you're waltzing—well, with Georgiana Bailey."

"Great Scott! Let's imagine something pleasant to begin on. All right here goes! Get out of the channel, Winfield!"

One evening toward the end of the month Gus said to him: "Brad, if you were I would you go to the ball on the evening of Decoration day at the town hall? I've had two invitations."

"Humph!" The answer was somewhat hesitating.

"I supposed you didn't know. Otherwise, of course."

"I should have invited my dancing teacher to go with me. Gus, would you have liked it if I had invited you?"

"I should."

"Well, then, Miss Baker, may I have the pleasure of escorting you to the grand fandango to be held in the Orham Crystal palace, under the supervision of his royal swelledness, Mr. Solomon Bangs?"

"You may, sir. Oh, Brad! Of course I'd rather go with you, because—"

"Because what?"

"Because I want to see how my pupil looks dancing with somebody else."

Gus was prettier than ever the night of the ball. She was dressed simply in white, but when she came out of the dressing room at the hall and took his arm Bradley noticed that the eyes of half a dozen young men followed her and that they whispered to each other.

Gus' "order" was filled in a few minutes after the first number was over; there were more applicants than dances. Bradley danced a quadrille with Clara Hopkins, who was pretty and jolly, and he enjoyed it thoroughly. He labored through a contra dance with Georgiana Bailey and didn't enjoy it as much, although that effervescent young lady purr that she had had a "perfectly lovely time," and he was "lookin' so well" and why didn't he call at the house.

Miss Bailey's blue silk gown had an imposing and very troublesome train, and she smelt like a perfumer's shop. Captain Titcomb came up the stairs. He had a dripping umbrella in his hand.

"Why, hello!" exclaimed Bradley. "I didn't know you were coming."

"Hello yourself!" retorted the captain. "I didn't know you was coming either, so we're square on that hitch. It's blown up a regular snorter outside," he added.

"Georgiana's gayer in a tin peddler's cart, ain't she?" continued Titcomb. "Cap'n Jabe's the only moultin' pullet in that coop."

He broke off suddenly and was silent for a minute or more. Bradley asked him what the matter was.

"Oh, nothin'!" was the hasty reply. "Quite a crowd here tonight. Who's the little clipper in the white with blue pennants in her fore riggin'—the one dancin' with Jonadab Wixon's sister's boy?"

"That's Clara Hopkins."

"Humph! You don't say! Jim Hopkins' girl. I wouldn't have known her." And the captain subsided once more.

A little while after that, as Bradley was dancing his Virginia reel with Gus, he noticed a disturbance among the crowd of watchers at the door. He was in the middle of the line at the time, and "Snuppy" Black stood next to him.

"Hello!" exclaimed "Snuppy." "Why, it can't be! By thunder, it is! Sam Hammond's come. I didn't know he was expected."

Hammond it was, and in all the glory of city clothes and unlimited self confidence. When the reel was over, he came across the floor to where Gus and Bradley were standing.

"How d'ye do, Gus?" he said, extending his hand. "I'm down for a few days. Got a vacation that I wasn't looking for. Came on tonight's train and thought I'd run up here for a little while, soon as I could get away from the home folks. Let me see your order. Hello, Brad! How are you?"

He was well dressed, still in the rather conspicuous way, and he had an easy, masterful air about him that none of the country fellows had, though they all envied it. And he was good-looking. That couldn't be denied.

The last dance was the lanciers, but as "Beulah D." arose to "call off" he announced that there would be, by special request, an "extra"—a waltz. Bradley had seen Hammond talking with the prompter and with Mr. Bangs, and he knew whose the "special request" was. Under other circumstances he wouldn't have cared so much for that waltz, but now he wanted it very much indeed.

He walked over to where Gus, flushed and laughing, stood talking with Black, her partner in the lanciers. Just as he reached her side Sam came hurrying up and pushed in front of him without ceremony.

"Gus," said Hammond, "I made Ben give us this waltz on purpose, so that we might have it together. You haven't been half generous to me tonight, and now I'm after my pay. Come!"

He offered his arm, and for a moment the girl seemed about to take it. Then she looked at Bradley, who, disappointed and chagrined, stood silent in the background.

"Thank you very much, Sam," she said, "but this waltz belongs to Bradley. Come, Brad, the music is beginning."

If any one had told Bradley previously that he would thoroughly enjoy a waltz he would have laughed, but he enjoyed every moment of this one. He saw Sam's scorn as Gus stepped past him, saw the smile on the faces of Black and the other bystanders, and then they whirled away. Round and round and round, "Bonnie D.'s" music wasn't the best in the world, but to Bradley just then no grand opera orchestra could have played more sweetly. His feet seemed almost as light as his partner's, and they kept perfect time.

It was over all too soon.

Conglomerate Uniform.

A man appeared on a London suburban street the other day wearing busbar trousers, a London Scottish belt, a tunic with York and Lancashire regiment buttons, and with a foot-guards' bearskin on his head. He was arrested for "bringing the uniform into contempt," though he explained that he was on his way to "give a recitation."

The magistrate advised him next time he wanted to do that kind of a thing to go to Koepenick and do it.

Why Vinol Is Better Than Any Other Remedy to Restore

Health and Strength

WE RETURN MONEY IF IT FAILS TO GIVE SATISFACTION
SMITH DRUG CO.

Because Vinol is a real Cod Liver Preparation and does not contain a single disagreeable or harmful ingredient and is not a secret formula.

Because Vinol contains all the medicinal elements—the soothing, healing, strengthening and flesh creative properties of Cod Liver Oil—but without oil or grease.

Because everything in Vinol,—except the tonic iron and a fine old wine,—is actually extracted from fresh cods' livers and their oil.

Because Vinol is deliciously palatable and agreeable under all conditions. Everybody likes it.

Because Vinol tones up the system, strengthens every organ, nerve, muscle and fibre of the whole body and thus overcomes weakness by thoroughly eradicating the cause of disease.

That's Why Vinol is altogether different and better than any other remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, and all Throat, Lung and Wasting Diseases.

That's Why Vinol Restores Health and Strength to Delicate Children, Feeble Old People, Weak and Sickly Persons, Nursing Mothers, and Convalescents.
